Note: Ribbon rock is a rock with stripes.

I drafted yet another so I'm going to take a step back from this discussion.
Machari stratum is made from black shale!
That's right.

Note: Black shale is a rock with a black color.

Usually, the reference books only talk about main rocks, but you can see that ribbon rocks sometimes appear in the Machari stratum out on the field.

Then how can I know anything when the many research based on those books?
I can't ask the ribbon rock what stratum it's from. What should I do.

I could hear another voice.
Don't joke with me. I'm trying to solve a scientific question here.
Ah, yes.

Doctor, you said that those rainbow marks are from the Kharium stratum or, soon as you saw them. There must be some reason why.

I can explain it in detail, but rather than hearing my explanation, it will be easier to see it with your own eyes

Then the answer is...
If you go around this place, you will find out soon enough

That's a cliché conclusion.

But it was nice to question if there was a reverse fault.

Whisper
Yeah

You didn't just believe the materials, but tried to think about it in your own mind.

Then let's go around this place more

I keep learning and learning things which aren't there.
Am I fooling myself?

Hm.

Doesn't the doctor and Yoon Hee feel similar?

I don't have to sleep more
You should go to your room. It's no fun for you when we just talk about academic stuff. You don't have to listen to it

Knock knock

STX, hurry hurry

STX top

The purpose of the research I'm doing is re establishing the stratum around this area
Uh.. Hae is an area which has been researched before, but I think there are some parts which people don't know about.

It's a thesis which you wrote when you were completing your master's degree. I read it too.
You did the research on the stratum of the Dan Yang area again
